

Plane With 43 Crashes; 7 Dead

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A Mohawk Airlines plane, crashed and burned on take off in a heavy rain and hail storm at the Rochester Monroe County airport Tuesday and at least seven of the 43 persons aboard were killed. All the rest were reported injured.

Among the known dead were the pilot and first officer of the twin-engine Martin 404. But the names of the other dead and injured were not available immediately.

Witnesses reported the violent storm broke over the airport just as the plane began its takeoff.

"They said the craft hardly had left the runway, when it veered sharply to the left and its wing tip appeared to touch the ground. Then the plane plummeted sharply to earth, plowing into a muddy area — the site of a runway-extension and road relocation project."

Mac Accused Of Petulance

LONDON (AP) — Labor party leader Harold Wilson accused Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Tuesday of taking a petulant attitude and trying to laugh off the sex and spy scandals which have shaken Britain.

In a face to face collision in the House of Commons, Macmillan snapped back that finding the spies was a security success—not a failure — and angrily told Wilson he thought his remarks offensive.

The row was touched off by a dispute over the way the Conservative government handled recent security disclosures. These were topped by Monday's revelation that a diplomat-turned-espionist Harold Philby was the mysterious "third man" who warned renegade diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean to flee England in 1951.

More Polio Cases Reported

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP)—The incidence of polio in Cumberland County rose to 17 cases Tuesday, but three of the victims were discharged from Carlisle Hospital as non-paralytic.

One new case was reported with the admission to Chambersburg Hospital of Darlene Bell, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Bell of Shippensburg R. D. 2. The Bells live at the western fringe of Cumberland County near the Franklin County line.

Hospital authorities at Chambersburg said they were informed the child developed polio symptoms the day after receiving Sabin vaccine Type I. They said it usually requires at least a week for the vaccine to be effective.

Kennedy Heads Back Home

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—President Kennedy rode smiling Tuesday night through streets lined by a half million cheering Neapolitans and headed back to Washington from a 10-day European tour designed to strengthen the Atlantic community.

Kennedy's blue and silver jet took off from Naples' Capodichino Airport at 7:33 p. m. (1:33 p.m. EST). It was the windup of one of the busiest days on the tour that had taken him to Bonn and the Berlin wall, to his ancestral home in Ireland, to talks with British Prime Minister Macmillan and then to Italy.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices met support at the anticipated level and the market rallied smartly Tuesday, posting the biggest gain in three months. Trading was relatively slack.

Volume was 3.54 million shares compared with 3.38 million Monday, both sub-average for the year and reflecting no particular conviction.

The Dow industrials rose 7.59 to 708.94.

Bells In Monroe County Will Ring For Freedom

STROUDSBURG — Bells of churches, schools, and the county courthouse as well as bells in many area homes will ring out on July 4 at 2 p.m. joining a nationwide movement to celebrate Independence Day.

Bells across the nation will be ringing at the same time for a four minute period.

People on the West Coast will be ringing bells at 11 a.m., in Denver, Colo. at 1 p.m., and on the East Coast at 2 p.m. A notion of people will celebrate freedom in unity.

The mayors of the four boroughs in Monroe County — Joseph A. Small of Stroudsburg; Thomas Kastler of East Stroudsburg; Arthur Lehr of Delaware Water Gap; and Gerald Possinger of Mount Pocono — have issued a proclamation in conjunction with Gov. William Scranton's proclamation to "Let Freedom Ring."

Boy Scouts Push

The campaign started in this county, with Troop 98 Boy Scouts of America in Brodheadsville. They saw an article in a scouting magazine and contacted Scoutmaster William Fisher.

Fisher and one of his assistant scoutmasters, Robert Hoffman, are members of the Optimist Club to which the plans were presented.

The Optimist Club of the Stroudsburgs has contacted every church in the county and asked that permission be granted to ring bells at the appointed hour.

Courthouse Bell

Also backing the Optimist Club are the Monroe County commissioners, who yesterday gave permission for the courthouse bell to be rung, and the Monroe County Historical Society.

Mayor William Starnor of Portland announced last night that residents of Portland will participate in the nationwide celebration too.

Mayor Small said, "We in Stroudsburg decided that this was a real good thing and we ask that all residents in the borough ring any bell they might have in their home."

"In our house we have a dinner bell that was my great-grandfather's. His wife used it on their farm near Jonas to call the farmhands in from the fields at dinner time," he continued.

"My great-grandfather, George Lessig, passed it down to my grandfather, Joseph Lessig, who was a plumber in East Stroudsburg. Here it was used to call in the men from the plumbing shop, when they were working there, for dinner," Small said.

The Dinner Bell

He continued, "When I was a small lad I told my grandmother that when she died I wanted the dinner bell. When she died, the bell was given to me. Since that time we have used it at football games and other events and on Thursdays we will be ringing it again this time to celebrate Independence Day."

Herman R. Smeltz, district deputy commander of the 30th District American Legion, said last night, "I think this is a wonderful idea. Too many people in this country take too much for granted and they forget the many men and women who have died in the struggles this nation has had to preserve liberty and independence."

Collins Van Gordon, commander of George N. Kemp Post 346 American Legion in East Stroudsburg, said, "I think the idea is a mighty fine one and a sane way to celebrate the holiday. This is going back to the old-time way of celebrating and there is nothing in the world wrong with that."

Old Tradition

Lawrence Savercool, commander of Thomas P. Lambert Post 250 VFW in Stroudsburg, said, "The idea of returning to the old-time celebrations is a fine one, and the idea of a nation-wide celebration at the same time will be a very good reminder to all of the many men and women who died fighting so that those back home could be free."

Gov. Scranton was among the first to call for the widest possible participation in the let-freedom-ring celebration. The movement is particularly favored in Pennsylvania because of Fourth of July observances this year coincide with the centennial of the battle of Gettysburg.

Philadelphia Declaration

Pennsylvania is also the home of independence in this nation. It was in this state that the Declaration of Independence was born, but at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, the birthplace of the Declaration of Independence, a recording of bells must take the place of the real thing.

The Liberty Bell, housed in this historic building, cracked 125 years ago as it tolled for the death of Chief Justice John Marshall.

Many suggestions have been made to have the famous bell welded in the hope of restoring its ring, but these suggestions have met with just as many outcries of protest.

Earlier in the history of the Liberty Bell it was hid at various times to prevent it from falling into the hands of the British during the Revolutionary War.

At one of these times it was hid in a cellar of a home in the Allentown area.

Gives Exclusive Interview

Adenauer Would Welcome Soviet 'Discussions'

Editor's Note—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer granted A P C reporter John M. Hightower, accompanying President Kennedy's press party, an exclusive interview. Hightower, who won a Pulitzer Prize as a diplomatic reporter in Washington, reports on the interview in the following dispatch.

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared Tuesday disarmament and nuclear test negotiations may be useful to the West in trying to persuade the Soviets to change their policy so that East-West tension can be reduced.

Adenauer, long reputed to be a hard-line Western leader in relations with Russia, said in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press that he would welcome "reasonable discussions" with the Soviet Union. But he warned against offering concessions unmatched by Soviet concessions of equal value.

The retiring West German government chief set forth and amplified these and other views in a long conversation in his private office in the Palais Schaumburg, where he conferred with President Kennedy a week ago.

Adenauer expressed conviction that the recently ratified French-German friendship pact, providing for periodic consultations between Bonn and Paris government chiefs, will serve the interests of all the Atlantic allies. He said it marks an end to 40 years of French-German hostility.

He declared his support for European unification in "close partnership" with the United States, thereby endorsing the main line of President Kennedy's European policy. But he emphasized his conviction that President Charles de Gaulle of France is firmly committed also to the alliance and that France forms with Germany "a firm bulwark against the threat to Europe from the East."

The informal discussion of international issues with the chancellor was specified beforehand as being off the record. Written answers were made to written questions submitted in advance. The points covered included:

Q. While the record of German political development during the 14 years of the present republic is clear enough, many Americans still remember the collapse of the Weimar Republic in 1933 after 14 years' existence. The question they raise is this:

Have the German people fully broken with the attitudes and conditions which made Hitler's dictatorship possible and will they strive to preserve their democratic freedoms and institutions?

A. I can answer this question with an unqualified "yes," the people of the federal (West German) republic have their feet planted on the soil of democracy.

The elections for the Bundestag (Parliament) of the past 14 years showed that the population of the federal republic is committed to the democratic parties. The bitter years that Germany experienced between 1933 and 1945 have led to a genuine change of heart, not least in those persons who in 1933 placed their hopes in Hitler.

Q. You often have been represented, Mr. Chancellor, as one of the most unyielding of Western leaders in your attitude towards attempts at agreement with the Soviet Union. Do you believe that accommodations are impossible? Under what conditions might they become possible?

A. Neither am I opposed to efforts to get along with the Soviet Union nor do I reject all concessions. I should welcome it if the West were to enter reasonable discussions with the Soviet Union.

But concessions on the Western side are possible only if equally significant concessions are made on the Eastern side.

Q. Do you consider that any real progress can be made in disarmament before some of the potential causes of war are removed by political agreement between the Soviet Union and the Western powers? I have in mind particularly the problems of Berlin and the division of Germany.

A. The tension between East and West is a result of the negative attitude of the Soviet Union. If this tension is to be removed, one must try to persuade the Soviets to change their policy. In this respect, agreements in the sphere of disarmament and the cessation of atomic tests would be useful.

As suggested by the Western powers in Geneva in the summer of 1959 (at an East-West conference on Berlin), consideration also could be given to a parallel solution of political problems and of questions of disarmament.

Q. Assuming that the present divisions between Eastern and Western Europe continue indefinitely, do you believe the chances for dangerous incidents might be reduced by establishment of some kind of zone of disengagement between Eastern and Western forces?

A. In my view a disengagement is not a suitable way of guaranteeing an adequate degree of security. The mistrust would remain.

Then, too, a so-called disengagement between Eastern and Western forces in Europe, because of the geographical situation, would bring about a one-sided shifting of the relationships of military power, in favor of the East bloc. What is more, such a disengagement would create a dangerous vacuum that could tempt a potential aggressor to ill-considered steps.

Khrush Offers To End N-Tests For Non-Aggression Program

Terms President's Talks 'Dangerous'

BERLIN (AP) — Premier Khrushchev told a cheering East German audience Tuesday that in exchange for a non-aggression pact with the West he would be willing to go along with the United States and Britain on ending nuclear tests in space, in the atmosphere and under water.

Khrushchev led into his offer by calling President Kennedy's speeches in Berlin and West Germany last week "a dangerous development."

Khrushchev spoke in advance of talks on a nuclear test ban scheduled to start in Moscow with U.S. and British negotiators July 5.

He deliberately left underground tests out of his proposal, and appeared to write off an agreement on this as impossible.

New Package

Khrushchev appeared to be making a new package offer to the West, but the Soviet leader himself said he had made the partial ban proposal before. A suggestion of this was given by British Labor Party leader Harold Wilson on his recent trip to Moscow.

After Kremlin talks with Khrushchev, Wilson said he felt the best hope was for a limited test ban which would exclude underground nuclear tests. The West contends on-site inspection is necessary to guard against cheating with underground tests and has insisted the Soviet Union permit up to seven inspections a year.

Khrushchev maintains no such inspections are necessary but offered up to three on-site inspections. However, he said he will not go any further.

To the East Germans, Khrushchev said of a limited test ban accord:

"We have made this proposal before, but the Western powers frustrated an agreement advancing supplementary conditions which envisage large-scale inspection of our territory."

If the non-aggression pact-partial ban proposal were accepted, said Khrushchev, "the question of inspection does not any longer arise, since the Western powers declared that no inspections whatever are needed to check the fulfillment by the states of their commitments to stop nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in outer space and under water."

Formed Proposal

The Russians did propose in November, 1961 a ban on all but underwater tests, providing the West would accept an unsupervised moratorium on underground testing. The West refused the condition. Thereafter the Russians insisted on an all-or-nothing ban.

New Khrushchev appears to be revising his offer, this time with a new condition attached.

Diplomatic sources said the West might be listening with interest to the proposal in this form. His declaration came near the end of a visit in East Germany where Communist leaders from East Europe gathered to celebrate the 70th birthday of East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht and to discuss the growing troubles within the Red camp.

Predicts Red Wave

Time after time, Khrushchev enlivened his German audience with promises that the Red wave would one day sweep over West Germany from the East. Then he reminded them that one long standing conflict between East and West was moving into a new stage with the test ban meeting in Moscow.

He accused President Kennedy of using an "aggressive tone" in his talks in West Germany.

Khrushchev goes to Frankfurt-on-the-Oder, just 60 miles from Berlin, Wednesday to meet President Josef Cyrankiewicz of Poland.

FBI Arrests Four Russian Spies In Conspiracy Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI arrested two persons in New York and two in Washington Tuesday and charged them with conspiring to obtain military information for the Soviet Union.

Agents said the New York couple "put up a terrific struggle."

The arrests followed by one day an order by the State Department for a Soviet Embassy cultural attaché in Washington to leave the United States for attempting to recruit a Russian-born U.S. Central Intelligence Agency employee as a spy.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, announced the crackdown, identified those taken in New York as Ivan Dmitriyevich Egorov, 41, a personnel officer in the United Nations Secretariat, and his wife, Aleksandra Egorova, 39.

The FBI said they protested they were innocent and refused to leave their New York apartment where FBI agents arrested them.

Finally Submits

Egorov finally submitted to arrest, a spokesman said, but his wife had to be carried out bodily.

The pair taken in Washington were listed as using the names of Robert Balch and Joy Ann Balch.

The FBI would not say where the four are being held.

Named as coconspirators with them but not as defendants were Aleksei Ivanovich Galkin, 45, and Peter Egorovich Maslennikov, 43, both described as Soviet intelligence agents. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said they have left the country.

There was no connection with Tuesday's arrests and Monday's ouster of Gennadi G. Sevastyanov, 33, of the Soviet Embassy, the FBI said.

Assumed Identities

The complaint filed in U.S. District Court for Eastern New York said the defendants known as Balch assumed the identities of living U.S. citizens for the purpose of concealing their real identities and nationalities. It said the real owners of the Balch names were unaware of this.

Aleksei Ivanovich Galkin, 45, and Peter Egorovich Maslennikov, 43, —members of the Soviet intelligence — were named as co-conspirators but not as defendants.

Hoover said Galkin left the United States May 10 after serving for several years as first secretary of the Byelorussian Mission to the United Nations. He said Maslennikov left this country on May 3 after having been employed as first secretary of Russia's U.N. Mission.

An FBI complaint filed early Tuesday in New York charges that the arrested individuals—together with officers of the Soviet military intelligence in Moscow, New York, and Washington, conspired to communicate, deliver and transmit to Russia information relating to U.S. military and Navy installations, troop movements, shipping and military waterfront facilities.

According to the FBI, those who were charged "conspired with each other by secreting messages and information in magnetized containers left in pre-arranged dropings" in Queens County, N.Y., and elsewhere.

The alleged conspirators also are charged with communicating with each other through codes, ciphers and secret writings.

Racial Roundup Across The Nation

ZIP Code Progress Marked

STROUDSBURG — As a long range program, the ZIP code progress in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg is "encouraging," according to postal officials.

Postmaster Fred Rhodes of Stroudsburg said that about two per cent of the mail going through the office had the new ZIP number fixed on the letters.

"There have been quite a few of them with the code on, but not as many as we'd like. The main thing is to get ZIP numbers in return addresses so persons can note them in other places," Rhodes said.

He said that about as many private as business letters had the code. "With 2 per cent using the code this early, it's rather encouraging," he said.

In East Stroudsburg a post office official said that he had no idea of the per cent of letters with the code, but results were good and the program was "coming along."

ZIP Code is designed to speed business mail primarily, accounting for 75 per cent of the mail bulk.

For private letters, the code will be a cross check against incorrect addresses.

Pittsburgh Will Cut Work Force

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steel Co. will cut back production and reduce its work force by 750 to 1,000 employees in the next three months, a company spokesman said Tuesday.

A drop in demand for steel following the recent basic steel agreement was the main reason cited.

The spokesman said customer vacations and the auto industry's model changeover period also figure in the cutbacks.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A $35,000 fire believed started by an arsonist damaged a vacant six-story building in downtown Pittsburgh Tuesday. It was the second fire at the building in less than a month.

Fire Chief Stephen Adley, who estimated damage, said the blaze at the old Star Jobbing Co. building was set deliberately.

A fire that erupted in a rubbish heap at the rear of the first floor caused $15,000 damage June 4.

The latest fire burned out the interior of the building. It probably will have to be razed, the city Bureau of Building Inspection said.

Firemen battled the blaze for about two hours before controlling it. They said the structure was filled with smoke and flames when they arrived.

Smoke and water also damaged Kimer's Catholic Book Store and Paul's Coffee Shop.

Assistance Dept. Grants Decline

HARRISBURG (AP) — Public Assistance rolls showed a decline of 18,200 persons during the month of May, the Department of Public Welfare reported Monday.

The report listed 447,600 relief clients, and said the decline continued a downward trend first evidenced in April.

Expenditures fluctuated, with a final total of $23,157,213—an increase of $45,748—being reported.

Public assistance grants, however, stayed in line with the recipient decrease by dropping $567,245 for the month.

Medical care payments increased by $336,126, while the largest increase in expenditures was $60,464 resulting from "the inclusion of three bi-weekly payrolls in May," the office said.

Police Issue Traffic Warning

HARRISBURG (AP) — Traffic violations during the congested July Fourth holiday period just won't be tolerated, Traffic Safety Commissioner Harry H. Brainerd said Monday.

Brainerd said in a statement he would hand out "maximum suspensions" to all violators during the four-day holiday weekend. He asked the judiciary to apply "maximum penalties in all cases covering the holiday period." He added:

"Holidays are death days on our highways and the one way to cut accidents is by strict enforcement of the vehicle code and the suspension schedule."

Sunday Liquor Sales Sought

HARRISBURG (AP) — A bill was submitted to the House Monday for approval which would permit Sunday liquor sales by licensed restaurants in any municipality where a majority of the voters give their approval at a referendum (H1571).

Rep. Maurice H. Goldstein, R-Allegheny; Matthew J. Ryan, R-Delaware; Stanley H. Moholich, D-Luzerne, and Alfonso Parlante, D-Phila., sponsored the proposal.

Governor Clamps Down

Repayment Of State Aid To Colleges Poses Problem

By FRED WALTERS
HARRISBURG (AP) — In 1966, the legislature voted approval for the state to construct buildings for colleges and universities receiving state aid.

The act gave the Department of Public Instruction authority to subsidize the projects to those institutions "with the approval of the governor... upon such terms and conditions as shall be agreed to."

The 1967 legislature extended the authorization to state-aided medical schools.

Since then, more than $92 million worth of projects have been completed or started.

The state has never held the nine institutions for whom it has done work responsible for repayments.

The state, however, will have to pay the General State Authority, which financed the projects, $1,756,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1.

This year, the payment was $1,658,554. The previous year it was $990,000.

There are another $49.5 million worth of projects awaiting GSA approval.

Calling A Halt
Gov. Scranton told a recent news conference, however, that he plans to call a halt to the practice of providing these buildings free to the institutions.

"I am not in sympathy with the idea that we (the state) should pay for these buildings," the governor said. "I have made the statement that I would not be in favor of it in the future."

There have been increasing complaints about the practice. They were voiced frequently by legislators during hearings on the governor's 1963-64 budget last spring.

The beneficiaries of the state's generosity have been the Universities of Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh, Lincoln and Temple Universities, Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, Hahnemann Medical College (Philadelphia), Jefferson Medical College (Philadelphia) and Women's College (Philadelphia), Jefferson Medical College (Philadelphia) and Women's College (Philadelphia).

Pittsburgh Fort
Pittsburgh has benefited with $27.1 million, followed by Penn with $25.7 million, Temple $22.5 million, College of Osteopathy $4.6 million, Lincoln $4.3, Drexel and Hahnemann $3.3 million each, Jefferson $2.1 million and Women's $287,195.

The expenditure for Women's was for design of a $5.5 million clinical and teaching services building.

This is among the $49.5 million worth of projects that may be affected by the governor's decision to make the institutions pay back the state, presumably over a 30-year period.

Jefferson has $14.9 million at stake, covering a basic science and student commons building. Penn has requested $11.2 million for an administration and general service building, physical education facilities and an addition to its medical school.

Singer Will Star In Role

CHERRY LANE — Joelle Jones will star in the title role of "Little Mary Sunshine" at Cherry Lane Playhouse, July 8 through 13.

She began her singing career at eight years of age when she studied at the Cleveland Conservatory of Music, followed by the Detroit Institute of Music, and Juillard School of Music in New York City.

Miss Jones has been featured in stage plays with John Raitt, Johnny Desmond, Peggy King and Robert Rounseville.

Tocks Recreation Area Under Study

TRENTON, N. J. — The Public Lands Sub-committee of the Senate Insular and Interior Affairs Committee is about to consider the Tocks Island National Recreation Area legislation.

The subcommittee is chaired by Sen. Alan Bible (D-Nev.), and James F. Wright, executive director of the Delaware River Basin Commission, has written a letter supporting the project to Sen. Bible.

The bill to create the 37-mile long area on each side of the proposed lake to be created by a dam at Tocks Island five miles north of Delaware Water Gap is sponsored by Sens. Clark and Scott of Pennsylvania, Case and Williams of New Jersey, and Javits of New York.

Indian Plans Trip

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan has accepted an invitation to visit the Soviet Union this fall or next spring, his spokesman said Monday.

She will return to the Cherry Lane Playhouse in August to play the lead role in "Carnival."

Total project cost is estimated at $122 million.

The letter by Wright to Bible says, in part, "This site would attract nearly 7,000,000 visitors annually and the benefits would be of national significance."

"The Tocks Island site conforms in all respects to the primary criteria for selection of national recreation areas recently promulgated and adopted by the President's Recreation Advisory Council. There is no area in the U. S. in greater need of recreation facilities than that served by Tocks Island."

Polio Vaccine Clinic Went Smoothly In Barrett Twp.

BARRETT — The task of coordinating the administration of Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine in Barrett township was carried out by Walter Melnikoff of Canadensis, who was requested to handle the responsibility by Dr. Harold A. Tattersall.

Melnikoff, who in the past has been active in community affairs and as a school director, said Sunday that 1,771 people were immunized during the 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. hours.

"The work was a joint effort," he pointed out, "we set up tables and arranged for running. The clinic, thanks to the cooperation of Mrs. Leon Meyring who sought volunteer workers and Mrs. Marie Albert who arranged for registered nurse volunteers, our clinic was staffed."

"To insure the presence of a physician at all times, Dr. M. J. Leitner, Dr. William Simons and Dr. Eli Berman volunteered their services."

Melnikoff said that local publicity received a boost through the use of a sound truck which was donated by Les Marvin. Charles Siglin operated the truck each Sunday between 10 a.m. and 12 noon to remind residents of the clinic's operation.

"Harry Campbell, chief of police, handled traffic flow," Melnikoff said, "he was aided the first Sunday by members of Boy Scout Troop 96."

In discussing the effectiveness of the program locally, Melnikoff expressed regret that the original 2,015 persons immunized May 2 did not return June 2. The number immunized that Sunday totaled 1,187.

"After the first Sunday, a survey of the local schools showed 450 children had not been given the vaccine," Melnikoff related, "arrangements were then made to have make-up doses given in the schools."

"According to comparisons," he continued, "nearly 450 in the Pocono Mountain School Jointure are not immunized."

Make-up immunizations will be available during this week at the General Hospital of Monroe County. "After that," Melnikoff emphasized.

sized, "people will have to go to their own doctors to receive the vaccine."

He said the donations for the three Sunday period were not recorded. "The medical association made up the difference if donations were not sufficient, we didn't want people to feel they were obligated in any way to pay."

Unemployment In State Shows 48,000 Seasonal Rise

HARRISBURG — Following the usual pattern for this time of year, total unemployment in Pennsylvania rose in mid-June. Secretary of Labor and Industry William P. Young announced today.

The number of jobless workers totaled 345,000 in mid-June, an increase of 48,000 from mid-May. The rate of unemployment also moved upward, from 6.5 percent of the total civilian work force in May to 7.4 percent in June.

Secretary Young pointed out that despite the increase, this was the lowest June level since 1957 when total unemployment measured 299,000 and 6.2 percent of the work force.

Secretary Young referred to the rise as "expected." He attributed it to the temporary increase of new entrants and re-entrants into the job market with the closing of schools and the opening of many summer jobs.

Last year at this time total unemployment was estimated at 373,000 and 7.9 percent of the total civilian work force. The all-time June high occurred in 1958 when the volume was 558,000, representing 11.5 percent of the work force.

The national unadjusted rate of unemployment for May was 7.2 percent.

Let Freedom Ring

We salute Boy Scout Troop 98 of Broadheadville and the Optimist Club of the Stroudsburgs for their efforts in getting every Monroe County church, school, courthouse and dinner bell to ring on the Fourth of July at 2 p.m. (See story on Page 1).

Their efforts will join Monroe County with the whole state and nation in a revival of an early American celebration of independence—the ringing of bells

Don't Kill Yourself

Fourth of July holiday deaths and accidents have taken almost as many lives on America's highways as were lost during the War for Independence declared 187 years ago tomorrow.

Casualties from July 3 to July 7 have been estimated as high as 50,000, including 550 deaths. The Revolutionary War which really started in 1763 cost about 10,600 casualties.

Many of the deaths and accidents are like the Liberty Bell which now sits cracked and silent in Philadelphia.

It is particularly fitting that Pennsylvania should lead the bell-ringing revival. The Declaration of Independence which we celebrate tomorrow was written in Philadelphia where Independence Hall marks the birth of our nation.

Let all the bells in Monroe County ring out tomorrow to celebrate the freedom won by the Declaration of Independence (see full text on this page).

Declaration Of Independence

(This is the full text of the Declaration of Independence as it was adopted by the Continental Congress in Philadelphia on July 4, 1776.)

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under an absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained, and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to assent to Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places, unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers.

Dependent Judges. He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies, without the Consent of our Legislatures.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power. He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation: For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us: For protecting them by a mock Trial from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States: For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world: For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent: For depriving us in many cases of the benefits of Trial by Jury: For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offenses: For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies: For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws and altering fundamentally the Form of our Governments: For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

Waging War. He has abdicated government here by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executors of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions. In every stage of these Oppressions we have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury,

A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people. Nor have We been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unvarnished jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

Free and Independent. We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

Even the Administration's major tax and revenue proposal—the increase in the rate of the sales tax—has been handed a legislative face-lifting, have been upped from the 4 1/2 per cent rate the Governor originally requested to the present 5 per cent.

The pending program of the Administration for institution of broad-reaching civil service for career professional employees on Capitol Hill is being changed considerably from its original concept.

The Administration's school subsidy program is winding up in a far different version than initially conceived. These and similar legislative juggle-arounds illustrate what can and usually does happen between legislative and executive branch thinking.

Favorites: Two goats chewing up top-secret reports at the Pentagon, with one grunting happily, "Best damn propaganda I ever saw!" a general's hatchet-faced wife collaring him at the door of his home to snarl, "You're not going to go inspecting barracks until you tidy up the mess in your own room!" the G.I. having a tooth yanked at the dispensary, grasping, "Ouch—Sir!" and an admiral jumping up from his chair with a shriek of anguish while his aide whispers to a J.G., "I think the admiral's found that Japanese carrier that was missing from his chart."

A man who had made a great fortune in the Alaskan gold rush was asked how he had been so successful when so many others had returned empty-handed. The old prospector smiled and replied, "I never told anybody before, but now I'll tell you. I just kept digging holes."

George Dixon

Ghost Town Pastor

By George Dixon

Albuquerque, N.M. July 2 — I came out here to address the Historical Society of New Mexico and was seated on the dais between Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington and a Franciscan monk. The friar soon commanded all my attention because a leg of his chair slipped off the platform and he executed a crashing back somersault. A distinguished rescue squad, composed of Senator Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, former Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, and New Mexico Supreme Court Justice David Chavez, leaped to his aid, but the Rev. Fray Angelico Chavez scrambled to his feet insisting he was unscathed.

The Pennsylvania Story

'Watered' Legislation

By Mason Deason

Harrisburg—What an Administration on Capitol Hill wants or requests of the Legislature and what it usually receives oftentimes turn out to be two entirely different things!

As the 1963 Legislature heads down the homestretch (or so it hopes) toward an end-of-the-month adjournment, what has happened so far on Scranton Administration requests is of more than passing interest.

Virtually every piece of major Administration legislation has been changed in one way or another!

For example, strip mine backfill legislation today is vastly different from its original form.

The notorious school district reorganization program has been watered so far and so many times most lawmakers in their understandable confusion over the issue are prone to think of the legislative gem in terms of being drowned.

Even the Administration's major tax and revenue proposal—the increase in the rate of the sales tax—has been handed a legislative face-lifting, have been upped from the 4 1/2 per cent rate the Governor originally requested to the present 5 per cent.

The pending program of the Administration for institution of broad-reaching civil service for career professional employees on Capitol Hill is being changed considerably from its original concept.

When I marveled at how he had escaped injury, Father Chavez remarked blandly: "In the ghost towns where I come from you've got to learn to tumble."

"What do you mean 'ghost towns'?" I blurted.

"I am the pastor of four churches in four ghost towns," he replied matter-of-factly.

"That did it for me. My interest centered exclusively on the monk. This was heightened later when I learned he was also a noted poet, author, and historian. Next morning early I headed for his ghostly pasture."

The first I came to, out Route 10, was Golden, then Madrid (pronounced by the perverse "Angloes" with accent on the first syllable), MA-drid is the most ghostly town I've ever seen. It was a thriving coal mining town, but the mines shut down, and all but a handful of people wandered away across the mesa, leaving everything just as it was, minus only those who had left.

The spectral miners' cottages still cling to the hillside, like haunted houses. The ghost saloons and general stores stare out vacantly. A spook locomotive still stands on the tracks, as if waiting to get up wraithful steam.

The next ghost town I came to was Los Cerrillos, where Father Chavez lives in an adobe rectory, next to the old "dobe" San Jose Church. Incidentally, the priest-historian contributed this to my clutter of information: "Adobe" is a Moorish word, imported from Africa. Adobe bricks are clay and straw cubes of those the Children of Israel made in Egypt.)

Father Chavez' other ghost town churches are St. Francis in Golden, Our Lady of Light in Lamy, and Nuestra Senora de los Remedios in Galisteo. All have ghostly saloon neighbors. There's this to be said about Fray Chavez' ghost towns; his churches are always open, but all save a couple of saloons, preserved as tourist museums, are always closed. I offer this to temperance societies for what use they will.

By comparison with the gaping and crumbling saloons, the churches are in an excellent state of repair. I asked Father Chavez about this. He demurred. Finally he confessed reluctantly that he keeps them up himself. The poet-philosopher-author-historian turned out to be also plumber-carpenter-mason-electrician and belfry-maker. All by himself he restored the old bell tower at the Golden church in between codifying and filing the archives of the entire Roman Catholic Church in New Mexico.

I asked Father Chavez if he had any of the problems of the non-ghostly outside world.

"Yes—yoking and old delinquency," he replied. "But I did something about some of it."

He said the old men used to get drunk and lie down in the dusty road. The young men used to drive crazily about the dangerous Sangre de Cristos Mountain goat tracks.

"I got through to both sets of delinquents," said the 53-year-old Rev. M. Chavez. "Pretending to address my sermons only to the young auto racers, I said: 'Drive more safely. You may turn a corner suddenly and run over your granddaddy lying in the road.'"

Washington — President Kennedy and Senator Barry Goldwater may have had what will prove to be their first encounter of the fateful 1964 election battle.

The President fired the first shot, and got an immediate and combative rejoinder.

Goldwater went to the White House at the President's request for a discussion of his plans to persuade Premier Khrushchev to come to a nuclear test ban agreement. Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman is flying to Moscow shortly in an effort to negotiate such an accord.

As Goldwater was leaving, the President remarked smilingly, "Barry, the way things are shaping up, it looks as if you and I may go to the mat next year."

Looking the President squarely in the eye and without smiling, the arrow-straight Arizona replied, "I haven't made up my mind yet. But I can tell you one thing. If I am nominated, you will have the political fight of your life."

"I'm quite sure of that," said the President quietly and seriously.

At the behest of the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which Goldwater is a member, he inspected the Defense Department's far-flung communications system in the huge Pentagon building. This network includes the Washington end of the recently installed "hot line" to the Kremlin. The committee asked Goldwater to make this scrutiny because he is a major general of the Air Force Reserve and knowledgeable about communications.

He reported to the committee that he was "greatly impressed" by the scope and efficiency of the Pentagon system. In a 15-minute period, he talked to U.S. bases in 18 countries.

Family Wrangle — Senator Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., militant anti-monopoly crusader, and Thomas Corcoran, one-time influential New Deal brain-truster, are old friends, but that did not keep them from clashing angrily at a closed-door meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

First Encounter

Corcoran, now a highly successful corporation lawyer, truculently challenged a Kefauver accusation, and made him back down.

The committee was considering measures advocated by Kefauver to reduce the price of drugs. Corcoran, representing large pharmaceutical interests, was testifying on this issue. Suddenly, Kefauver asked him about a report that he had inspired an article inferring the drug industry would oppose funds for the Alliance for Progress if Kefauver persisted in his proposals.

"That is absolutely untrue," thundered Corcoran. "Now, Estes, you either prove that or take it back!"

Obviously startled by Corcoran's vehemence, Kefauver hemmed and hawed. But Corcoran held adamantly to his demand. Brushing aside formality and senatorial courtesy, the one-time top New Dealer truculently insisted, "Estes, I said prove it or take it back, right now!"

For a long moment, the two men looked intently at one another. Finally, Kefauver said placatingly, "I take it back."

After the meeting, he and Corcoran agreed to ask that the explosive incident be expunged from the transcript of the proceedings. That was done.

Corcoran's elder daughter is following in her father's footsteps. She has completed her first year at Harvard Law School, from which she graduated some 40 years ago. Her first job was law clerk to the late famed Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

GOP POLITICS — Former President Eisenhower may be the keynote speaker the Republican national convention in San Francisco next July. National Committee strategists are seriously considering that. If it is decided to have someone else make this address, it is certain Eisenhower will be one of the main speakers at the convention. That has been definitely determined. It's also likely that ex-Vice President Nixon will be asked to talk. He has let it be known he is eager to be on the program as he will not be a delegate. New York party chiefs have no intention of including him in their delegation.

Representative Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., is considering a primary race against veteran Republican Senator J. Glenn Beall, nearing retirement and reportedly undecided whether to seek a third term. Mathias, 40, is a war veteran, has strong party backing. Influential GOP Maryland leaders are making no secret they think Mathias would have a better chance to retain his Senate seat than Beall. Other party leaders, however, dislike the idea of a bitter primary fight. Meanwhile, a number of hopeful Democrats are indicating intention to run regardless of whom the Republicans nominate.

Demo Politics — Fund-raising is very much on the minds of Democratic senators facing tough election battles next year. Senator Gale McGee, Wyo., who expects one of the hardest contests, is having two fund-raising affairs this month—in Washington at $100 a plate, and another in Wyoming. The Washington fund-raiser will be unusual in one respect: It's the first one this year sponsored by a member of the Kennedy family. Peace Corps Director Surgeon Shriver, brother-in-law of the President, is making his home available for the McGee party. The affair in Wyoming, a $25-a-plate dinner, also will have an unusual feature—a plenitude of senators and other prominent officials who will make the long trip especially for this occasion. . . . A $100-a-plate "testimonial dinner" was held in Manchester, N.H., to help pay off some $35,000 debt still remaining from Senator Thomas MacLennan's surprise Democratic election last year. . . . Supporters of Senator Stephen Young, D-O., are organizing a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner for him in Cleveland. Their aim is $100,000 for his admittedly uncertain re-election fight next year.

Senator William Proxmire, D-Wis., ruefully telling colleagues he is being bombarded with blasts from Democrats back home for his opposition to the President's tax-cutting bill. The Milwaukee Democratic County Council unanimously voted a resolution demanding he support the measure. But Proxmire says he is sticking by his guns regardless of the brickbats. . . . Pennsylvania Democratic leaders are eyeing keen interest in Judge Clinton Budd Palmer, Easton, as an opponent against Republican Senator Hugh Scott next year. A war veteran and nephew of the late Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, Palmer is a forceful campaigner and definitely interested in challenging Scott. Meanwhile, former Governor David Lawrence is taking soundings on being a candidate, but so far has found little encouragement.

Dear Abby

And So Will You Always Be!

DEAR ABBY: I am "the other woman" in an affair. Joe and I are very much in love. We have gone together for four years and his wife has known it from the start. I have four small children and I love them. Believe it or not, I am a good mother. I never loved their father. He gave me a divorce so I could marry Joe. The problem is Joe's wife. She will not give him a divorce. He has tried everything to make her leave him. She has a job and can support herself. They have no children. She says she loves him no matter what. I have even told her all about us, but she said she doesn't mind sharing him with me. I think she must be crazy. Please, Abby, tell me what to do.

LOVED

DEAR ABBY: Give up. This woman is crazy like a fox.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both under 30. We love children, but have none of our own as yet. We both work. As soon as we get home every evening, the neighbor children start ringing our bell, wanting to "visit" us. We eat supper at 7:30 and some evenings we have as many as ten children sitting with us or standing around our table. Don't get me wrong, we love children, but not in groups of ten every evening. Maybe our mistake was in being too hospitable when we first moved in. How can we discourage these youngsters without reporting them to their parents and making enemies of our neighbors? Have you ever received a letter like this, or is there something wrong with us?

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Despite the mid-week holiday, this may well go down in history as one of the longest work weeks of the year for the town's air-conditioned. Add to the heat and humidity, the noise, teletype ticking, wire service humming, fans roaring, and papers and notes flying.

But subtract the usual jungle of telephones. Nobody was spending the evening by a hot telephone — and as telephones rang in empty houses, you could picture them all sitting in the cool, heat-lightened dark outside somewhere.

Bob Clark, who certainly picked the right two weeks for vacation, stopped in looking rested, relaxed and with that freshly-showered look that makes the sweat-soaked workers feel twice as grubby. Having put the peons in their place, he walked right out again.

There has been an added aggravation in my life this week. Preparing to go to the New York Fashion Shows which begin on Saturday, I have been pouring over pictures of fur vests, mobby tweeds, and fuzzy woollens and itching in sympathy.

Meanwhile, there's the problem of my own fashion show wardrobe, which at this point consists mostly of shorts and sleeveless dresses. Once in New York, however, I've learned from sad experience, you need woolen underwear for the air conditioning inside, and an oxygen tank for the air outside.

Nobody is going around the office wishing each other a happy Fourth of July, but the mere fact that we won't have to be looking at each other all day on the Third should make that a holiday of sorts.

And if the cold wave comes through maybe we'll be waving flags and spitting watermelon seeds all over the office. Anyway that's what you do.

Scores In Piano Recital Despite A Broken Arm

Canadensis — A plucky little girl with a broken arm was the talk of the piano recital given by the pupils of Mrs. John Nauman recently.

Nancy LeBar, a beginner, was to have played three numbers, but with her right arm in a cast due to a roller skating accident the Friday before, prospects didn't look too bright. Then, Mrs. Nauman suggested that Nancy, who knew her numbers quite well, play the left hand and she would fill in the right. It was done, and Nancy received an ovation for her courage.

The program was composed of number from Bach to boogie with each pupil giving a display of technique learned during the preceding year. Stephanie Kintzel and Mrs. Nauman opened the program with the theme "Somewhere Over the Rainbow." A duet later in the presentation was "Deep Purple." Stephanie gave an accounting of "Tales from the Vienna Woods."

Jeanne Gibbins represented Bach with two selections, "Prelude No. 1" and "Solfeggietto." "Narcissus" and "Liebestraume" were played by Celestie Villa who introduced march tempo later with Sousa's "Semper Fidelis," and did "Sabre Dance." "Dawn" arrived "East Side, West Side," for Stanley Nauman, and Linda Gibbins followed with "Lovely Roses" and "Melody of Spring."

For Gloria Storm, "Cobbler, Cobbler," and "The Storm" were given to "Celia." Gary Reinhardt impersonated "The Whirling Dervish" and a "Little Navajo." Cathy Dunlap's "Forest Dawn" disclosed "Swans on the Lake," and Marla Nauman's "The Cellist" did the "Minuet." Susan Wilson's "Contre Dance" was done "At the Junior Prom," with "A Wee Bit O' Boogie."

"Dutch Twins" attended a "Spanish Fiesta," "Long, Long Ago," with Mara Shoemuth at the keyboard. Johnnie Nauman played about "Singing Lanterns" in "Dublin Town."

Greg Murray, "From a Wigwam" also presented half of "Comin' Round the Mountain" and "Home on the Range" with his teacher.

Ann Hutchinson's "Minuet in G" and "Für Elise" were both representations of Beethoven. Linda Storm played "Red River Valley" and Tommy LeBar presented a medley of "sing-along" songs, and "American Patrol."

Paula Reisenwitz did "Arago-nais" followed by Nancy Canfield's excerpts from Eckstein's "Suite for Piano." Nancy was joined at the keyboard by Charlene Villa for a rendition of the duet, "Mantzania." Nancy bowed off and Charlene presented "Clair de Lune" and "Alley-Cat."

"Hungarian Rhapsodies, No. 2" were done by Paula Reisenwitz. Mrs. Nauman completed "Mala-quana" and finished her solo with "Bumble Boogie."

After the program, the students

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

If you are among those who love a parade, you should have been in our store Monday morning. The first of our great moves was on, and there was a continuous stream of young men laden with blankets, sheets, towels, and bedspreads heading through the Shoe Department enroute to the former Toy and Music Store, while an equally continuous line laden with dolls, games, novelties, and children's furniture marched back through the store toward a new location on the second floor. By tonight this portion of our Wyckoff change-over will be completed. In the meantime, everyone is amazed at the rapidity and smoothness with which the move was made. As Shirley Hay said, "We've had an army of movers. I haven't seen the same face twice all morning."

Our new Fabrics and Domestic Store is really impressive, occupying the entire area once devoted to toys, music, sewing machines, and contract items. You will love its fresh, clean newness . . . the carefully coordinated way in which related merchandise is displayed on shelves and cases . . . the ease of shopping . . . and the enormous stock which will really dazzle you. You couldn't tell in the cramped, not-so-well lighted quarters of the past just how much we did have in stock. NOW YOU'LL KNOW.

As for Dick Kishpaugh, the buyer, this is a happy time . . . the realization of a dream that's been bugging him since he first came to our Wyckoff store. That's why the grin, which is continuous with him, is bigger, broader, and better than ever. Come see for yourself how beautiful we are!

It isn't often I get away from work and home completely, that's why this past Saturday and Sunday were so enjoyable I never even permitted the torrential rains of Saturday to dampen my spirits. My locks suffered maybe . . . but not my sense of adventure.

Shorty and Marion Widmer planned to participate in the open air Art Show at Port Jervis and invited Maura and me to accompany them. We did . . . and I must say the four of us resembled a band of gypsies. Shorty's car was so laden down with his paintings, outdoor chairs, and an accumulation of luggage. We looked as though we were heading somewhere for a month at least, which I suppose is typical when you have a teenager along who simply must take extra clothes "just in case I go swimming . . . just in case I go to the movies . . . just in case we eat somewhere where shorts aren't permitted." Let's face it, one terry beach robe, a swim suit, thirty jumbo curlers and a bottle of wave set pretty well fill the average overnight case!

Many of the artists were familiar to those who attend our Wyckoff Art Shows: the Sharps were there, as were the John Farleys, Joe De Thomas, John Janning and his daughter, Ernest Cron and his sister, Mrs. Michaels, Ada Deihl, many of Shorty's students, and Don Johnson whose stark, striking painting of a covered wagon, alone in the desert, won first prize professional in our Art Show this January. Don has since had a painting selected for permanent display at the Benedictine Abbey in France and has won several other awards. My hostess was Matilda Grech, the very lovely, very gifted young woman whose paintings are recognized as those of a "real comer" in the world of art. She, her husband, Russell, and their sons were grand to us.

Certainly "Sunday painters" visiting the Poconos can find many persons to share their interest, and many thrilling landscapes and interesting characters to paint . . . as well as our Wyckoff Artists' Supplies Store to serve them.

San Francisco Evokes Nostalgic Echoes And Recipes You Can Try

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

I don't think there has been a song since I was a teenager that has "hit" me like "San Francisco". As I listen to the lyrics and haunting melody, I can feel the magic of the city, the only city that I have ever visited to which I'd like to return. It is as busy and bustling with people as New York or Philadelphia, but there is an undefinable quaintness that sets it apart from any other place.

Getting on the trolley car at Powell Street and climbing the spectacular steep hills is as much a thrill as riding a roller coaster in an amusement park. And though tourists ride the cars, business people, too, get on and off giving you the sensation that you must be taking part in a movie!

Fisherman's Wharf along the San Francisco Bay is fascinating. One grotto after another is filled with vendors selling all kinds of fish and even souvenirs; there are so many restaurants it is difficult to choose which one to visit. The three of us love shrimp so we had to sample the fresh shrimp sold along the wharves. For fifty cents, the shrimp is piled high in a paper dish with plenty of hot sauce to make it taste scrumptious.

Shrimp salad is a favorite of mine all year long. Have you ever tried it in a molded salad?

Shrimp Mold
1 cup mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1/4 cup cold water
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
1 egg white, beaten
2 cups shrimp, shredded
1 1/2 cups celery, diced
1 cup pineapple, diced
6 whole shrimp
Mix mayonnaise, salt, and whipped cream lightly. Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over hot water. Cool. Beat egg white until stiff. Combine above mixtures and add the shredded shrimp, celery and pineapple. Place one whole shrimp in each point of a star mold and one in the center. Carefully pour the mixture over the shrimp; chill until firm. Unmold on a shredded lettuce. Serve with cream salad dressing. Serves 8.

Anywhere you eat in California, you're bound to get a good salad. We had a particularly tasty one at the Cliff House in San Francisco; we ate next to a window and could watch the sea lions playing on the rocks at the ocean's edge. This salad is similar and so good for hot weather!

California Salad
2 cloves garlic, peeled
1/4 cup olive oil
1 1/4 cups toasted bread cubes
2 heads lettuce or other greens
one-third cup olive oil
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 cup crumbled blue cheese
1 egg
Juice of 1 lemon
Add garlic to 1/4 cup olive oil and let stand several hours. Remove garlic from oil and mix with the toasted bread cubes. Tear greens and place in salad bowl. Add one-third cup olive oil, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper and cheese and toss. Break an egg over this, add lemon juice and mix well. Add bread cubes, toss again.

Polynesian food is also popular in California. This next recipe is different and very good, giving a new way to fix chicken.

Polynesian Chicken
Brown a 3 1/2 pound cut up fryer (or four breasts split), cover and cook over low heat for 20 minutes. Then add a quartered large white onion that has been separated into layers, and a green pepper that has been cut into long strips. Cook 1 more minute.

Drain one can of peaches (1 lb. 13 oz.), preserving syrup. Into one cup peach syrup (add additional fruit juice if you don't have enough syrup), stir in:
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon soy sauce
3 tablespoons vinegar
Pour over chicken and cook until clear and thickened. Add peach slices and two medium sized tomatoes, cut into sixths. Heat five minutes longer. Serves 6.

If You Haven't Found Job, Invent One For The Summer

By Vivian Brown
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Since jobs are scarce this summer, don't pass up off-beat opportunities. Be willing to take what you can get, rather than refuse to settle for less than the job of your dreams.

Seek out people going on vacations and see what you can offer them in the way of services. Can you take over their animals? Plants? Birds? One girl has rounded up a variety of odd jobs—feeding ducks twice a day, reading to an invalid lady, taking children to the beach. Each job pays a small amount, but the total makes it worth while.

Ferret out all the possibilities in your neighborhood.
Pet Sitter
What will the Jones' do with their poodles when they are on vacation? Do they want someone to kennel, air, feed the dogs?

Feeding a couple of cats several times a day requires little effort and can pay well. A box of canned food and milk left in the shade on a porch with a supply of paper plates, paper bowls, a can opener requires little time, effort and makes no mess.

These jobs do not tie you down for long stretches leaving free time to enjoy yourself.

Do Or Diet
Girls who want to lose weight should look for jobs weeding gardens. The exercise is good for hips, waist, thighs in particular. Many vacationers lament leaving flower or vegetable gardens at the height of their productive periods, but can't afford a gardener's services. They'll consider it worthwhile to have someone weed them a couple of times a week. Heavy lawn work, such as grass-cutting is better left to boys. Unfortunately boys often underestimate the remuneration from lawn mowing and other odd jobs around house grounds in their eagerness to locate what they consider more important work. The care of four or five lawns near one's home often can be better paying than a job away from home. They can wear casual clothes, eat lunches at home, and they have no transportation expenses.

Be A Hostess
Running parties for small fry in summer can pay off. Send the invitations. Shop for the party favors and food, developing novel entertainment and table decorations, and keeping the party on an even keel from start to finish. Figure out the costs, your fair return and charge a flat fee.

All-boy and all-girl parties are easiest to handle. Boys may be kept happy outdoors with food cooked over a barbecue grid, with baseball and kickball the fun of the day. Water pistols make good party favors. Girls may be kept happy indoors by looking at gifts and posing for pictures. Bring a couple of unusual ladies' hats—or fancy flowered hats, and let the girls pose in them. They'll love it.

2 U. S. Girls Enter Semis

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer
WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Billie Jean Moffitt, the 19-year-old giant killer from Long Beach, Calif., upset former champion Maria Bueno of Brazil Tuesday and joined Darlene Hard, another Californian, in the semifinals of the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championships.

Little Billie Jean, overlooked in the seedings, knocked out seventh-seeded Miss Bueno, the 1961 and 1962 winner, 6-2, 7-5 and kept alive her growing reputation for defeating favorites. When she smashed home tie-winning point, Billie Jean, only 5-foot-6, danced joyfully to the net while the dispirited Brazilian walked up slowly for the 1-2 handshake.

Last Attempt
Miss Hard, making her eighth—and probably last—attempts to win at Wimbledon, eliminated Jan Lehane of Australia 6-1, 1-2 when the Australian girl had to retire because of a twisted ankle. Miss Hard, also from Long Beach, is seeded fourth but ranked No. 1 in the United States.

Next in line for Billie Jean in Thursday's semis will be Ann Haydon Jones of Britain, who ousted Mrs. Donna Floyd Pales of New York 6-4, 6-1.

Miss Hard, the perennial challenger, must face top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia who defeated Renee Schuurman of South Africa after losing the first set 3-6, 6-0, 6-1. Miss Smith, winner of most of the big tournaments in the world but never at Wimbledon, was beaten here last year by Billie Jean in a first round match.

Chuck McKinley, an acrobatic 22-year-old from St. Louis and Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., will carry America's hopes in the men's singles semifinals Wednesday against Wilhelm Bungert, the C. major conqueror of favored Roy Emerson.

Facing Stolle
In the other semifinal, it will be Manuel Santana of Spain, the No. 2 seed, against Fred Stolle, the Australian who ousted Fred Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., in the quarter-finals.

Bungert will be a hard one to beat. He knocked out Mike Angster of Britain, the eighth seed, in the first round and proved he could deal with a big service and use his brain in his shocking upset of Emerson.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Wednesday, July 3, 1963
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Less strong, but still favorable Mars encourages you to be more assertive. Don't let that eager self down. So much to gain, give and glory in. A fruit wish for now.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Shun overconfidence while you remain constant and properly busy. Take some middle course this time. It's not "delighting" just for now, which can trip you and become a habit.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Marketable ideas ask your clever backing. You may produce a few of your own. But shun overdoing, over-reaching, overanalyzing. Good day to remain good and cautious.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Do not mind how the clock turns if you are doing the constructive. Time is never enough for the true worker and believer. He moves with increased strength, not interrupting to count hours.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Today and tomorrow shine under propitious Sun aspect for you who are the faithful to tasks, with the privilege to shoulder, Repudiate ill will.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Don't be careless in changes, trips, shorts, or with your reputation. Learn the lessons of details, also overall comprehension. Hard work, rest, but no matters for your incentive.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Announcing up and coming. You grasp the reins of freshly shod ideas or brand-new ones, give a special view of your own making. Older, younger folk could rather together handle.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Quiet, calm still important to achieve in least favorable. Under stress, with noise and rushing, you may waste time, energies (without knowing it). Advantages underfoot.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — The added touch and finesse, or friendliness will be just what the doctor ordered. In most instances, new gains, and do state your small efforts won't be fruitful.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You can double rather than merely single quality today, and in more than one department. If not, renounce for too much too soon, the road should please.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — An all-purpose ability, ease for you to call up, will treat you in proper light, sifting, placing right things out front. Mixed inclinations: don't let your mind see danger.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Alternating, some against, some weak, favorable and less friendly considerations. Much work means diligence, even if recreation is near, avoid letting "minor" chores go undone.

YOU BORN TODAY: Cardinal Sign of the Water Trifinity: love of family, tenacity, outstanding, intuition, understanding, canny. Congenial associates with cheery, persuasive people, who do "Look! Harmony, you at times do the very things that bring it about. Remarkable memory. Brilliant, statementable doctors, nurses, careful parents, adherents, homelike, share outside interests. Historians, you recall incidents many forget tell your stories fascinatingly. When you laugh, the world laughs with you, but take care when you cry — you may bring others to the same weeping wall, and stands still. You meet the public gracefully. Maintain this normal, far-seeing side. You lay groundwork for keens, so use finest tools and your talents properly developed. The self-educator, Calverley is powerful. Don't board too many souvenirs; put your sturdy count up against what ever the future: You can achieve so very much! 1963 filled with propitious omens. Birthdate of: Louis XI, King of France; Jerry Granall, statesman.

Hilarious Comedy Rocks Playhouse

By JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

MOUNTAINHOME — "She Didn't Say Yes," the new comedy by Lonnie Coleman at the Pocono Playhouse, is a tasty piece of comedy filled with laughing gas.

The show will try to make it on Broadway, and from the looks of the production Monday night, it should be a roaring success.

Many of the jokes and punch lines concern the sometimes sticky patina of living in New York.

The play is still a little rough, and some of the bits will probably change before it reaches midtown Manhattan, but the whole thing is a delight as it stands.

Part of this is due to the cast. Let's talk about Joan Hackett.

She stole the show, but not through overacting. She did it through talent. Combining a superb sense of timing with an ability to act like a chief of state smiling his way through a dull dinner, this lovely girl captured the audience. She should go far.

Parts Come Alive

Headlining the bill were Joan Caulfield and Peggy Cuss — two pros who made their parts come alive. Peggy Cuss is one of those people who can just look at a person and he breaks down in laughing fits. Joan Caulfield played the part of a flighty and lasciviously beautiful tramp.

As for Peggy Cuss, the play will be rumbling along for a minute without any big chuckles and Peggy will say two words and screw up her face.

Reaction? A wave of laughter goes rolling down the audience and everyone feels ready to laugh again.

William Redfield and Alan Manton added to the sophisticated fun. Redfield came on strong and lasted like a cross-country runner throughout the play.

Harold Prince directed the play, and his tribute came at the curtain call. The audience — jammed into the theater — loved the production.

Lonnie Coleman hasn't written anything that will go down in the annals of literary history, but his lines bring laughter over and over, faster and faster.

For instance, when Redfield finds everyone talking over his head, Coleman takes the opportunity to inject a simile like "I feel like I'm seeing a Chinese movie with no subtitles."

Joe Penavazzi plays a writer of western paperbacks. He makes you believe that he writes western paperbacks, which is no easy job. Pearl Singer, Grace Curvey, Edwin Cooper, and Jordan Churney are all excellent in supporting roles.

Central Figure

The play is Joan Hackett's play, though. She plays the central figure named Polly. This Polly is supposed to be as fresh and idealistic as possible. Miss Hackett effortlessly is fresh and young and idealistic, breathing laughter out of what could be a drag of a role if fumbled by the wrong hands.

Many of the laughs come from mannerisms. Nothing is particularly funny about this bit of dialogue:

Redfield: "Polly!"
Hackett: "Oooh!"

But see the play and watch the audience roar when Miss Hackett polka-dances in her husband's manner. This too is due to Harold Prince, the director, and to Miss Hackett for bringing it off.

There was only one act, but Jack Bates came up with another fine display.

With all due respects to Lonnie Coleman and the cast, this is the type of play that keeps the theater healthy, wealthy, and sick from laughing.

HERE'S THE GAVEL—Floyd Kellogg, newly elected president of the Optimist Club of the Poconos, receives the president's gavel from retiring president Edward H. Hoffman. GOP Club Names Hay President

PORTLAND — The Portland-Mount Bethel Republican club met recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Buck at Echo Lake, Johnsonville.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Paul Hay; first Vice President, Loring Nicholas; second Vice President, Mrs. Kathryn Ackerman; Secretary, Miss Lillian MacNamee, and Treasurer, Mrs. Betty Kessler.

The president introduced Robert G. Bartlett of Bethlehem, the Republican candidate for Congress from the 15th District. In addition to other civic activities, Bartlett was the 1961 Bethlehem Republican campaign chairman.

Also speaking were candidates for the November election. They are George Keshner for sheriff; Miss Beth Hoffman, registrar of Wills, Martin Barr, clerk of quarter sessions and James Hemstreet and Henry Ragot both from county commissioner.

There will be no meeting of the club in July because of the annual clambake at the Meadows.

Floyd W. Kellogg Installed As Optimist Club President

TOBYHANNA — The Optimist Club of the Poconos held installation of officers last night at the Tobyhanna army depot.

Club members and their wives attended, and Colonel and Mrs. M. J. Reichel were guests.

Following the dinner, newly elected officers President Floyd W. Kellogg, Stroudsburg realtor, Vice President Neal S. Rote, Stroudsburg Bell Telephone Plant wire chief, and Vice President Robert W. Hoffman, Sears-Roebuck Advertising manager were installed. After installation, the group was shown on a tour of the depot by Colonel Reichel, the commanding officer.

Kellogg replaces the retiring president attorney Edward H. Hoffman of Stroudsburg.

Newly elected Board of Directors members are William E. Griffin, William Fetherman, William Fisher, for two year terms, and Fred Walker for a one year term. William Griffin had charge of the arrangements for the program.
